1	Visit to Gau Anusandhan Kenra, Deolapar	Deolapar is a village in Nagpur district of Vidarbha region of Maharashtra state in India. Being on the border of two states, the town has the mixed culture among people, who are mainly from Marathi- speaking from Maharashtra and Hindi Speaking from Madhya Pradesh. We visited Deolapar on 28th September 2024, by Bus with B.Sc. students. It is nearly 68-70 Km. from our college and we take nearly 2 hrs. to reach at Deolapar. We all staff members and students reached there very safely. After reaching, we counted all the students and we make two groups of students. Two groups in different direction under the supervision of their team leader. Where all the students they visited to vermicomposting unit, medicinal plant garden, we visited to the department of Ayurveda medicine which had been prepared with the help of cow panch gavya and then all the students they had lunch over there which was very satvik. And we all come back to our college by 7.30 P.M. Overall a visit to Gau Anusandhan Kendra was a valuable experience or anyone interested in cows , agriculture, Vermiculture, Ayurvedic Medicines and sustainable development.
2	Outcome	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1) Studying and developing various products from cow dung and urine, such as fertilizers, pesticides, and medicinal products.</li> <li>2) It promote the use of cow –based products in organic farming practices &amp; Vermicomposting.</li> <li>3) Students can do research on improving the health and well-being of cows.</li> <li>4) Students gaining knowledge about cows, their products, and their role in agriculture and the economy.</li> <li>5) Learning about potential research collaborations or funding opportunities.</li> </ol>
